

Harrison - Understanding and promoting native bees

What was your goal and what did you achieve?

I wanted to achieve lots of knowledge about native bees in Australia and how we can promote them. This year I've worked with a friend of mine called Tiana and we've been researching native bees and how we can attract them and keep them in our country. I've had lots of teachers giving me great sources.

Next steps?

We're planning to build some bee hotels which the bees can use as they are solitary. I will probably continue as I need some more information on how we can keep bees.

Your biggest success so far?

The biggest success would probably be the display. I made a diorama with a light and everything of a natural habitat.

What did you enjoy most?

I've enjoyed that I've learnt so much information and that I can be bee friendly towards our country and to keep them.

Your advice to other students?

I would give advice to make lots of props for the bees because they're really important such as the hotels.

This case study was transcribed from an interview. These are Harrison's words and opinions.